

Vocational Nursing Program

Responsibilities of a Vocational Nurse

Licensed Vocational Nurses (LVN's) function under the direct supervision of the Registered Nurse (RN) or Medical Doctor (MD). They provide nursing care to patients of all ages; pediatric to geriatric within the scope of LVN practice as delegated by the RN or MD. The LVN gathers data relevant to the patient's condition or individual needs. As a valued member of the healthcare team, LVN's document nursing observations, collect samples for testing, monitor vital signs including temperature, blood pressure, pulse, and respiration, O2 saturation, and pain level in order to report abnormal conditions/findings to the healthcare team. Separately, they administer medications and various treatments per MD's order as well as provide basic bedside care. As well educated and licensed professionals, LVN's reinforce patient education and support, and are responsible for knowledge of the legal aspects of nursing.
